

ISTHMIAN EXPANSION

THE Rothmans Isthmian League's sub-committee meets this week to consider applications from over 30 clubs wishing to enter their competition next season and although their hopes of attracting top class non-league sides appear to have failed, they look certain to go ahead with their expansion plans.

In some ways this could be a bad thing for this grade of football and one authority has called it "legalised piracy".

Mr Barry East, progressive chairman of the Isthmian League, boldly stated recently that "The present set-up blights the ambition of clubs who can see no way of breaking into big time soccer. It does little to stimulate the enthusiasm of supporters who are expected to count their blessings and go on watching the same teams in the same leagues year after year.

"We must accept that a percentage of clubs, spectators and administrators want to keep it that way but I believe, that the more ambitious majority among leading clubs should be given their chance of climbing just as far as their talent and enterprise can take them."

"Strong regional leagues with the ultimate aim of a pyramid of football topped by the Football League still seems the best answer but achieving it will be very difficult because of the self interest and entrenched attitudes of many Leagues and their administrators. Unless clubs, leagues and administrators are prepared to put the good of the game above their own interest, there is little real hope of the progressive pyramid football becoming a reality."

The climate is right for the Isthmians to do something about this at their own level, the flood of applications produced by their announcement of expansion has proved it. Let them form their own southern counties pyramid. There are the Athenians, Hellenic, Hampshire, London Spartan, Surrey Senior, Sussex County, Magnet and Planet Eastern counties and the Kent League all operating around London. Why not have a get-together with the competitions' officials and see what can be done?
